

FUTURE COMMUNICATORS PROGRAMME for interns

Do You wish to develop your skills within an international communications consultancy and work from Zagreb on projects across South East Europe?

If so, sign-up for Grayling SEE Future Communicators Programme.

About the company: Established in 2001, Grayling (former Mmd Corporate, Public Affairs & Public Relations Consultants) is a UK-owned specialist communications consultancy focused on public relations, corporate and public affairs in Central, East, Southeast Europe and Eurasia. Our clients portfolio includes communication consulting services provided to Visa, IBM, Tele2, Samsung, IKEA, Henkel, etc.

Period of engagement: 2-3 months (possible extension of engagement).

Working hours: 9:00 am - 17:00 pm

Duties: Intern(s) will be supporting Grayling team at the time. During their stay with Grayling, volunteers are required to develop up skills of media monitoring (not press clipping) and basic media relations. Coaching will be provided within the company during engagement.

Selection criteria: Self-driven, motivated individuals with excellent written English preferred.

Deadlines: July 28th, 2010

Selection process: Please note that intern(s) will be selected per period of engagement.

Benefits: Selected intern(s) will gain their first experience in working for some of our renowned clients and would get a recommendation letters from us, should they learn to produce high quality outputs by the end of period with us.

For further information, please contact:

Daniel Hajden, Client Executive

daniel.hajden@grayling.com

Tel: 01 4882 860